

Kyriacos Th. Nikolaou-Patragas is graduate of Law School of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens and holds a Masters degree in History, Philosophy and Sociology of Law with specialization in History of Law from the same Faculty. In 2007 he supported his Phd thesis at Athens Law School on "Sexual delinquency in Justinianic and Islamic law. Adultery and related crimes.", which was published in 2012 . He teaches since 2011 at the Department of Turkish Studies and Modern Asian Studies of University of Athens, as well as at the Hellenic National Defence College, the College for National Security, the Supreme Joint War College etc. He has published eight monographs, approximately 40 papers in scientific journals, two translations from arabic and has edited four volumes and books.

From his books "Le reversement des tyrans a Byzante et a l' Islam" in Byzantinische Forschungen v. XXXI (2013) (International Zeitschrift fur Byzantininsti K.) p. 191-201 (and at a most highly developed and updated form "The overthrow of tyrans in the eastern Roman Empire and Islam. The platonic background" (Islamica, arabica et turcica XIII, Athens, 2013, p.77).

- "La prevision du testament selon le droit islamique", in Revue du Droit Public et de la Science Administrative, v. 57/2 (2013), p. 306-309.

- "L' article suppleant à la loi 4115/2013 sur les enseignants religieux de la minorité musulmane en Thrace", in Revue du Droit Public op. cit v. 57/1 (2013), p. 49-53 (avec Anastasios N. Marinos, Vice President é mérité du Conseil d' État Hellénique).

- "The institution of wakfs in Islamic law" (Islamica, arabica et turcica IX, Athens, 2013, p.112).

- "Die Reception der Chalifat bei der Osmanen", in Mnemosyne, v. 18 (2010-2012), p. 383-394.

- "The prohibition of third divorce by the same verbal expression, in Islamic law", in Gregorios ho Palamas, v. 95/846 (2012), p.307-311.